FORMER CENTRAL UNIVERSITY MAN

Dr. Van Lear, of Little Rock, Delights All With Sermon To Eastern Graduates

Rev. John Van Lear, D. D., of Little Rock, Ark., delivered Sunday evening, the baccalaureate sermon to the large senior class of Eastern Kentucky State Normal School, in the old Central University chapel and as stated by Dr. Van Lear, he had himself never before seen the chapel so full and crowded as it was Sunday night.

Arrangements had been made to have the exercises of the evening in the open campus. A large temporary pulpit for Dr. Van Lear and the senior class had been erected near the old grand stand; electric wires extended so as to provide good and sufficient lights and thousands of seats arranged and stationed on the ball park for the audience and large student body.

But the copious rains of the afternoon rendered the exercises in the open to be plainly impossible. Hence the old chapel had to be used for the occasion, thus causing disappointment to hundreds who could not even enter the chapel or who knowing it to be entirely too small did not venture out at all last evening.

The sermon came up to and even surpassed the expectations of the many old friends and admirers of Dr. Van Lear of his college days here. Time and space now forbid us quoting from Dr. Van Lear's sermon of last night. It is sufficient to say that it was learned, pleasing, eloquent, and instructive; delivered in good, clear, captivating voice, with occasional appropriate gesture. One of the strong points of his sermon was that, after all, the dreamer is the practical person as illustrated by the lives of so many inventors, discoverers and scientists. Another strong point of the sermon was that a chief end of education was the building of Christian character.

The sermon of Dr. Van Lear came up to the standard of baccalaureate sermons fixed by and in the days of old Central University here, when they were delivered by such eminent divines as Dr. Peyton Hoge, of Richmond, Va. Dr. Caldwell, of New Orleans, Dr. J. V. Logan, Dr. R. L. Breck, and others of the great class of men Dr. John Van Lear in the subject matter and delivery of his sermon showed plainly that he was educated in old C. U. It was indeed a treat to all who heard him.

While here Dr. Van Lear is the guest of Col. H. B. Hanger in his home, they being old acquaintances, members of their respective families having visited each other. Dr. Van Lear will spend day or two more in Richmond reminiscing, shaking hands with his old friends and meeting new ones, then he will go to Winchester and spend some time doing likewise as it was there he spent his childhood and youth. He will then go and visit a sister, Mrs. McAttee of Harrodsburg, Ky., then to his home church in Little Rock, Ark.

All here have enjoyed this brief visit of Dr. Van Lear. It has revived in some most happy memories of a departed past and we only hope he has enjoyed his visit among us as we have enjoyed him. We wish him an early return among us.

The music furnished at the baccalaureate exercises was especially beautiful and sweetly rendered.

NICE VACATION AT UNCLE SAM'S EXPENSE

City Attorney Joe P. Chenault is seeking to enroll at least 15 local young men to enter the training camp for civilians at Camp Knox this summer. The dates will be from July 21 to August 20. Mr. Chenault has application blanks for those who may wish to have this delightful and at the same time very instructive outing at the expense of Uncle Sam.

Opportunity for a month's vacation at the expense of the United States government is afforded the boys and young men between 16 and 35 years of age in Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio and West Virginia, comprising the Fifth Corps Area. This vacation will combine the advantages of healthful outdoor exercise with the benefits of military discipline, drill and field maneuvers under the instruction and supervision of officers of the U. S. Army.

Uniforms will be issued free of charge as well as all necessary military equipment. Those attending the camp will be quartered in barracks. Good shelter is thus assured. The food will be wholesome and nourishing. Recreation is also provided for and it is planned to have numerous games and athletic contests after drill hours. In the evening there will be band concerts and other entertainment.

The men and boys of the Fifth Corps Area are especially fortunate in being able to receive this training at Camp Knox which is known throughout the country as the largest military reservation now being used. The terrain of the camp, with its valleys, hills and stretches of level ground, makes it possible to have field maneuvers, sham battles, etc., under conditions of actual warfare. It is the hope of the Commanding General of the Corps Area to have representatives from every section of the four states attend the camp.

Here is the procedure: Obtain an application blank from the chairman of your county, have a physician examine you and then get a character certificate from some public official. Forward all this at once to the M. T. C. A. headquarters, 1200 Lincoln Bank Building, Louisville, or to the Commanding General, 5th Corps Area, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind. You will be notified in due time whether or not you are accepted for the camp. If you cannot obtain an application blank, write for one at either of the two addresses just given.

Blue Grass "Sold" on Sapiro Plan

Lexington, Ky., June 20—Leaving in its wake a deeply-rooted sentiment to cooperative marketing of tobacco, the week's educational tour of Aaron Sapiro, California expert, throughout the Bluegrass was brought to a close here Saturday when more than 1,500 growers and business men gathered to hear him talk.

The wave of enthusiasm sweeping the Bluegrass district and felt by all classes of citizens affected by the success of tobacco growers, now needs only to be crystallized into definite action through an intensive "sign-up" campaign, in the opinion of the leaders in the movement. Shelbyville, Richmond, Versailles, Maysville, Danville, Cynthiana and Lexington were the points visited on the tour and the message of cooperation penetrated into virtually every section of the Bluegrass.

Contracts were distributed among the audiences but no request was made for immediate signing. Some, however, insisted on attaching their signatures at once.

The first to do so was Louis Lee Haggins.

Among adjacent counties sending delegates today were Bourbon, Clark, Jessamine, Nicholas and Woodford.

More than 1,500 growers and bankers from Fayette and surrounding counties were present at the auditorium. Mr. Sapiro was introduced by James C. Stone, Lexington member of the executive committee on organization.

G. O. P. COULD LIFT HEAVY TAX BURDEN

Caused By War Armament, Says Congressman Gilbert, But It Won't Do It

Congressman Ralph Gilbert has written to June W. Wiggins, of this city, an illuminating letter regarding the proposition of disarmament by the nations of the world. Mr. Gilbert says that this great burden could be lifted from the taxpayers of the country if the Republican party wished it, but he predicts that nothing will be done. His letter to Mr. Wiggins reads as follows:
Mr. June W. Wiggins
Richmond, Ky.,

Dear Sir:—
I received your communication concerning the conference on armaments. There are now 48 of the leading nations in the world in conference on armaments. They all desire the United States to enter this conference. Personally, this is my sincere wish.

Congress has just passed a bill providing for very extensive armaments, both for army and navy. The reason for this was that no conference had yet been had and the United States could not afford to disarm before the other nations. Of course, this applied to every other nation. There was attached to the bill in the Senate, an amendment, known as the Borah amendment, that provided in substance, that these appropriations for armaments are not to be made until the President called for a conference suggested in your letter. This amendment carried in the Senate but the party in power will defeat this arrangement by what is known as the Porter substitute, which in fact, kills any requirement for a conference. The Republican party in Congress can get anything in the way of curtailment of armaments that it desires, however, nothing whatever will be done.

I hope you will not consider this letter political but the foregoing is accurate and a candid statement of facts as they exist. To say otherwise would be neither sincere nor honest. I appreciate the letter to me and assure you that personally I will be only too glad to do anything in my limited power "not only to invite but to compel an international conference on armaments."

Sincerely,
RALPH GILBERT

"I Will Not"

(Editorial in Lexington Herald)

It was a beautiful night, Wednesday, May 14th, 1919. The Auditorium in Lexington was crowded. The republican clans had gathered. From every county in the state were representatives of the republican party, come together to adopt a platform and nominate a ticket for state offices. It is true the law required a nomination should be made by a primary election. But the leaders of the republican party determined to have a convention and made "recommendations" for all nominations.

It was a most admirably managed convention. It worked with the precision of a well-oiled piece of machinery. A platform was adopted that promised everything to everybody. The men selected by the leaders were "recommended" for nomination.

A gallant youth appeared upon the platform, bearing high a banner on which was inscribed in golden letters the mystic phrase, "I Will Not." An attractive personality, with twinkling, flashing eye and winning smile, yet with a resonant voice that carried his message to every part of the great building in which he spoke and even far beyond the confines of the building to the uttermost parts of the state. Of proud lineage, the son of an eminent jurist and gallant soldier, and nephew of the best beloved leader of the republican party was he. The flaming banner on which was inscribed the mystic symbol "I Will Not" riveted the attention of the spell-bound auditors.

In his sonorous voice he amplified that inscription; the twinkle left his eye; it flashed with earnest purpose; his voice rang out surcharged with feeling as he exclaimed with passionate patriotism:

"I will not—
"Abuse or misuse the pardoning power, nor will I pardon any guilty man, nor will I use this great power for political ends."

For an instant there was that stillness that comes with overwhelming emotion; then the great conclave of republicans and independents, who desired only the best for the state, and democrats who believed public office to be a public trust, gave vent to their deep approval of this high pledge of the gallant youth who bore the banner with the cryptic insignia, "I will not."

Time elapses—the scene changes. The gallant youth of high demeanor and resonant voice occupies the proudest position in the noble State of Kentucky. With faith in his high promise, hypnotized by the flaming banner he unfurled on May 14th, 1919, an overwhelming majority of the men of Kentucky had chosen him as Chief Executive.

In his office at the capital of the state, surrounded by the spirits of the great men who in days gone by served well the Commonwealth, with his pledge to the people ratified and emphasized by his oath of office, he discharged the duties of the Chief Magistrate to whom is given the power of pardon—the most precious power that can be given to a human being.

A distinguished citizen of the state comes to him—a citizen whose services have been rewarded by his party by his election as a member of the Republican State Central and Executive Committee—the Honorable Maurice Galvin, of Covington. He asks the gallant youth, now Governor, to grant a pardon to one Frank Blair, alias John Doe, confined in the penitentiary.

A most interesting record has that same Frank Blair, alias John Doe. In 1918 he entered a business place in Louisville, held up the proprietor, robbed him of his money, and was captured after a desperate struggle. He was held under a three thousand dollar bond. Roscoe Searcy, who has the lucrative position of Oil Inspector of Jefferson county, a brother of Chesley Searcy, chairman of the Republican State Central and Executive Committee, succeeded in having that bond reduced to eight hundred dollars when the regular police judge was not on the bench, and Nick Vaughn, a republican attorney, now a candidate for the republican nomination for judge, was acting in his stead. Mr. Searcy immediately went to the bond recorders' office, put up eight hundred dollars in cash, proceeded to the county jail, secured Blair's release without notification to the chief of police—and Blair skipped.

Within a short time Blair was arrested in Ohio, charged with trying to rob a man on a sleeping car and as a result of that arrest he was returned to Louisville for trial and sentenced to the penitentiary for five years.

W. C. Lytle, postoffice inspector wrote to the warden of the Kentucky state penitentiary, telling him that there was an indictment against Blair in the Federal Court of Indiana, and asking that he be notified of his release, closing his letter:

"Kindly acknowledge receipt and give the requested information with a statement that he will not be released until I am notified."

H. V. Bastin, the superintendent of the Frankfort penitentiary, wrote to Mr. Lytle:

"We have marked our records, so you will be notified in time to have an officer here to take charge of him when he is discharged or paroled."

Blair is charged with robbing a bank in Leavenworth, Ind. of $50,000 worth of Liberty Bonds in 1918, is under indictment in Evansville on the charge of stealing government property.

But to return to the Governor's office. The Hon. Morris Galvin, member of the Republican State Central and Executive Committee, requested the Governor to pardon Blair, a letter from Blair was presented stating that he was drunk when he committed the crime in Louisville, and that he had a letter from a tubercular sister in California, and a letter from the man he assaulted in Louisville requesting his pardon.

There was no request from any of the officers of the Commonwealth in Louisville familiar with the facts, neither from the judge nor the prosecuting attorney, nor the members of the jury who tried the case.

But the Governor—the same gallant youth who in the Auditorium at Lexington had proclaimed "I Will Not"—abuse nor misuse the pardoning power, nor will I pardon any guilty man, nor will I use this great power for political ends—granted the pardon upon the ground that Blair was drunk when he committed the crime for which he was sentenced. He did not make any investigation—not even such cursory investigation as to ascertain the notations on Blair's prison record that included the promise of the warden of the penitentiary, a state official, to a postoffice inspector of the Federal Government, to notify him of Blair's release.

These are the facts in the record as revealed in the records of the courts and the prison, and interviews with the high contracting or pardoning powers.

What is the secret? Who is Blair? What is the source of the mysterious influence? Why did Roscoe Searcy, the Oil Inspector of Jefferson county, a brother of the chairman of the Republican State Central and Executive Committee, induce Nick Vaughn to reduce Blair's bond, go personally to get him out of jail, with the result that Blair skipped? Why did the Hon. Morris Galvin, member of the Republican State Central and Executive Committee, interest himself in securing a pardon for Blair, go personally to take him from the penitentiary to Paris, where Blair disappears?

Did Roscoe Searcy know that Blair was going to skip his bond? Did Morris Galvin know there was reason for Blair to make a quick getaway in order not to be captured by Federal officials? Did the Governor pardon Frank Blair, alias John Doe, solely because Blair himself stated that he was drunk when he committed the crime in Louisville, and the victim of that crime requested his pardon at the earnest solicitation of some unnamed and as yet unknown business man of Louisville?

What are the facts? There are certain laws providing for the punishment of those who aid criminals to escape. There are certain bodies commonly known as grand juries. The grand jury in the county of Jefferson has the right to make an investigation of the facts that transpired in Jefferson county. The grand jury in Franklin county has the right to make an investigation of the facts that transpired at Frankfort. The Federal grand jury has—we opine—the right to make an investigation of occurrences that led to the escape of a man under Federal indictment.

Will the facts be ascertained and made public, or will Frank Blair, alias John Doe, take his place alongside the Man With the Iron Mask as one of the great mysteries of human history?

HOW JOHNSON BEAT JEFFRIES AT RENO

In the long list of decisive ring battles through which the mantle worn by Sullivan has passed down the years to the bronzed shoulders of Jack Dempsey, there is no page to compare with that recounting the clash between Jack Johnson and Jim Jeffries in the sun-scorched arena at Reno, on July 4, 1910.

Tex Rickard reared a great wooden saucer on the plains of Nevada to accommodate the thousands who gathered from all parts of the country to see the tilt. He hung up a purse of $101,000, an unprecedented prize in those days.

Jeffries had not fought in more than five years. In the days of his reign in the ring, none had been his master, and he had retired voluntarily with no defeats recorded against him. He was 35 years old, an age often reckoned as dotage in the realm of sport. The attempt on his part to restore the championship to the white race was an effort to which he had been induced by a constant clamor from those who despised of Johnson ever being beaten by the crop of white hopes then seeking matches with him.

It was a great throng that assembled for the battle. Fringed around the great arena packed were rows of "birds' nests," built to shelter the sweet sisterhood from Reno divorce colony. To them the fight was a charming break in the monotony of serving time. Jeffries trained down to 235 pounds to meet the sleek opponent three years his junior and then in magnificent physical trim. There was vigorous fighting at the start, with Jeffries crouched into serious mien and his opponent erect, grinning and talking as usual.

In the fifth round Jeffries sent a stray left that rocked Johnson and momentarily wiped away his smile. But the worried look on the black face passed, big white teeth again gleamed and through them came the admonition "Don't rush, Mistah Jeff; doncha heah what 'lm tellin' you?" "Come on, Jeff, its easy," he repeated often through the bitter rounds.

Age and five years of freedom from the rigors of training told on Jeffries and the power of his blows grew less strong as the battle went on. In the 15th round—the last one—Johnson sent him to the ropes with a savage uppercut. Against the drooping head of the weary white man the black fighter then pounded away with one uppercut after another.

The challenger had tried and failed and he fell taking punishment. His manager hopped into the ring to stop the slaughter whereupon Rickard held up Johnson's hand in signal of victory.

IN THE MOVIES

The task confronting the producers of the screen version of Augustus Thomas' great play, "The Copperhead," which will be on view at the local theatres tomorrow, was a considerable one. It involved constructing and reconstructing twice an entire village, the employing, marshalling, costuming and directing of literally thousands of "extras" and endless research and study of archives pertaining to the periods of the Mexican and Civil Wars. Lionel Barrymore, who was star in the stage play, also is featured in the picture. Charles Maigne was director.

The village which was used was constructed on the plains of Long Island and is faithful in every detail in its reproduction of a middle western town in the '60s. It was modelled after original sketches and drawings showing the style of buildings of the period. Every structure was enclosed on all four sides in itself an innovation in movie making. Over 200 Mexican war soldiers, 2,300 civil war soldiers and 1,200 civil war veterans had to be impersonated by "extras." Different styles of guns had to be obtained for the soldiers in the two wars. An accurate copy of President Lincoln's proclamation of war reproduced by one of the few living men who had seen one.

All in all, "The Copperhead" is declared to be one of the big motion picture events of the year and well worth the attention of everyone. It is a Paramount Artcraft.

MADISON SENDS DELEGATION OVER

(By Associated Press)

Lexington, Ky., June 20—More than 175 junior agricultural club members, including representatives from 44 counties of the state have signified their intention to attend the junior week which opens today at the University of Kentucky and continues until June 25, according to announcement today by C. W. Buckner, state leader of club work. Delegates to the meeting, which is the first of its kind to be held in the history of club work in the state, are expected to begin arriving early Monday morning and by night the entire delegation is expected to be present.

Trips of inspection over the University Campus and the farm and experimental plots of the College of Agriculture have been arranged for Monday. The program of instruction in farm and home subjects will begin Tuesday morning. Visitors attending the meetings will assemble on the athletic field of the University Monday afternoon at which time the festivities of the week will be started with an athletic program.

Special features for both boys and girls have been included in the program for instruction, recreation and inspiration which has been arranged. Boys will study such things as gas engines, soils and crops, livestock, sanitation, hygiene and nature subjects, while girls will devote their time to studying home economics, improvements in food, clothing, butter making, home nursing, poultry raising and hygiene. In the general assemblies which have been arranged for each day, the club members will be addressed by Dean Thomas P. Cooper, of the College of Agriculture; Miss Maybelle Cornell, head of the Home Economics Department; W. C. Hanna, Commissioner of Agriculture, and Rev. Ralph Owens, pastor of a local church. An athletic program also has been arranged which will be held on the athletic field each day. Members of the College of Agriculture and the University staff will co-operate in giving instruction to the delegates who will have use of the University equipment and laboratories.

Counties which are sending delegations to the meeting include: Laurel, Lincoln, Hopkins, Crittenden, Todd, Taylor, Washington, Whitley, Wayne, Webster, Harlan, Livingston, Breathitt, Union, Shelby, Simpson, Clay, Bell, Breckinridge, Ballard, Morgan, Campbell, Calloway, Carlisle, Christian, Fulton, Graves, Jefferson, Jackson, Knott, Lawrence, Laure, McCreary, McCracken, Mason, Madison, Rockcastle, Nelson, Owsley, Oldham, Ohio, Pulaski, and Lee.

There is talk of merging the L. & N. and Atlantic Coast line railroads.

TELLS ABOUT CROP PROSPECTS IN WEST

Mr. J. W. Ballard has received an interesting letter from his brother, L. A. Ballard, of Elk City, Oklahoma, telling about crop prospects there. Among other things he writes: We got our first new wheat at the mill here Friday, 1,000 bushels and they say it is fine, making 61 1-2 pounds to the bushel. They paid $1.25 for it, but they expect to buy wheat in 30 to 40 days at 90 cents a bushel here, so they say. When will they have sale at Dr. Maupin's and what will the land bring? Will it bring $100 an acre?

It has been raining some here nearly every day but only small showers and it is hard on the wheat harvest. Old Man Sparks has cut 40 acres of barley and some wheat. He has 1,100 acres in wheat, rye, barley and oats, but the most of it is in wheat. He said he made 25 bushels of wheat on an average to the acre last year and this year is as good or better. Kansas wheat in certain places is fine, but in some parts bad from the drouth this spring. Most of Texas is said to have a bumper crop of wheat.

BEND

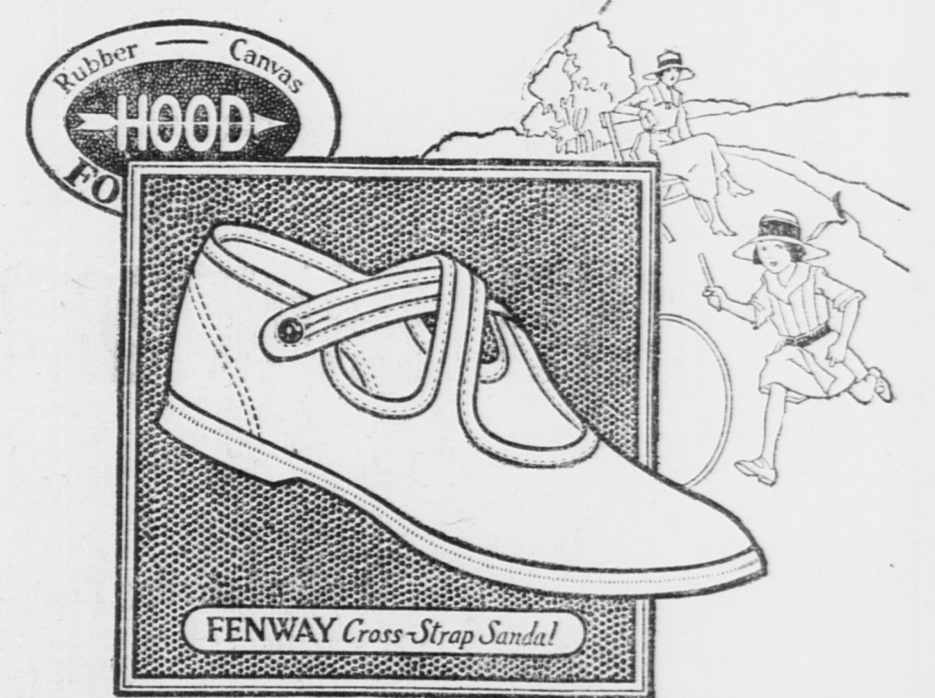

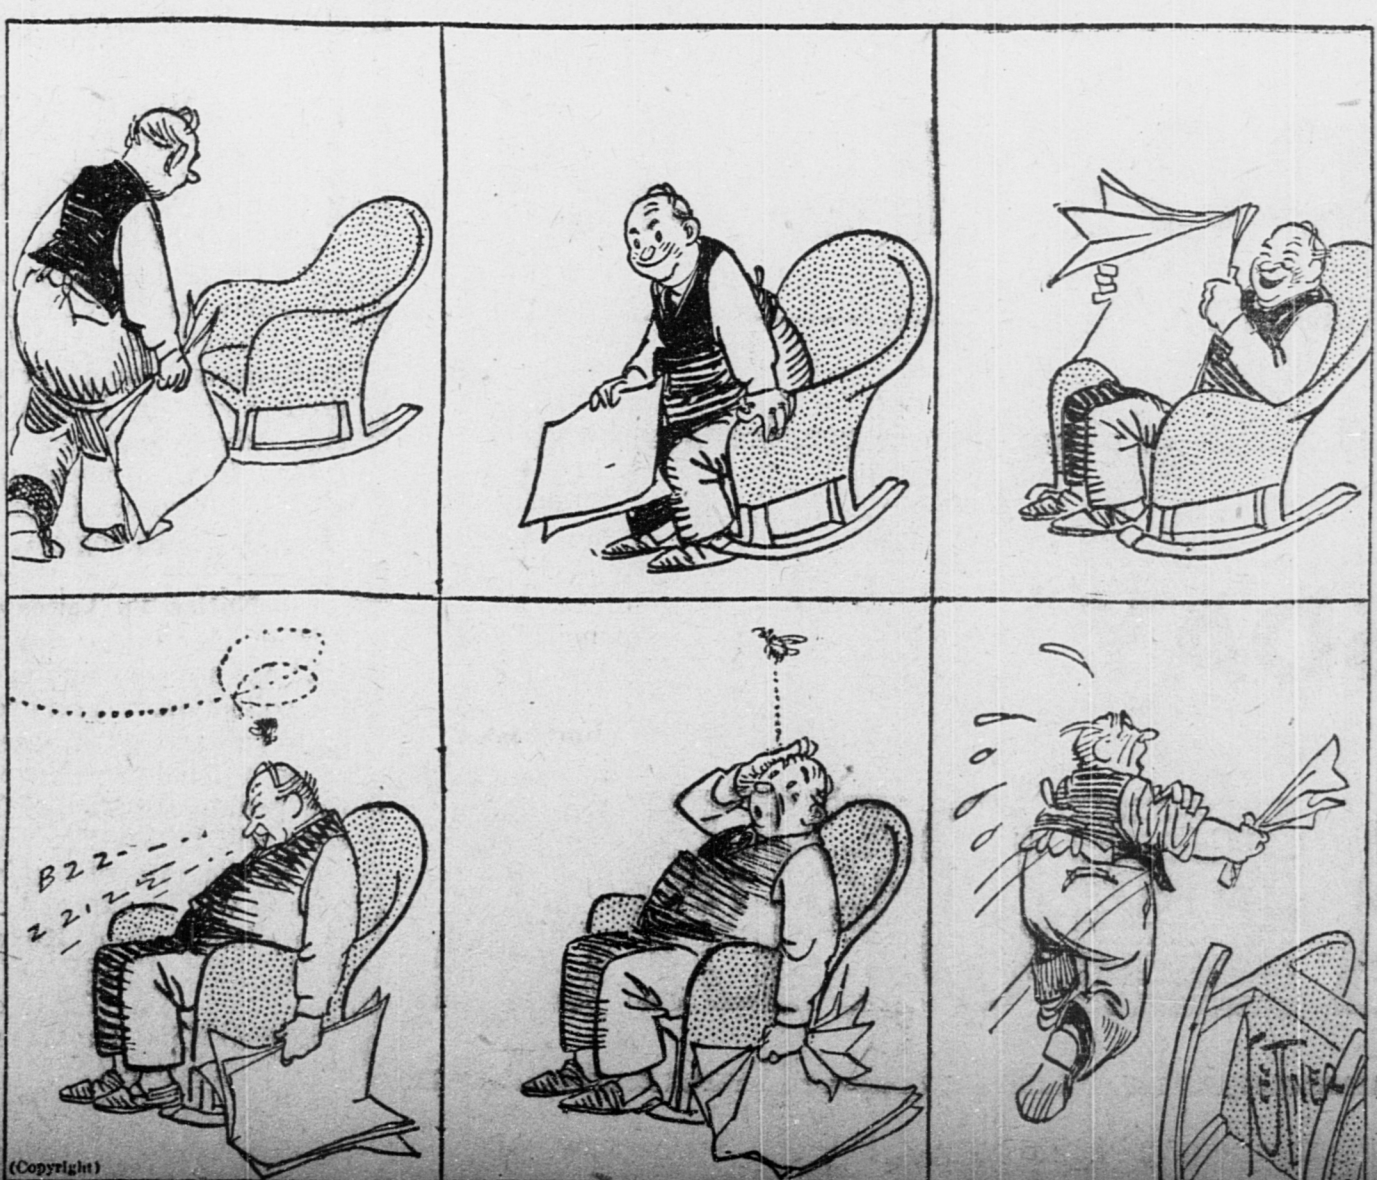

Miss Grace Finch, of Berea, and James W. Smyth, of College Hill, were married in Richmond, June 15th, Rev. O. O. Green officiating. After a short stay with relatives and friends at College Hill, the happy couple will spend a few days touring in the south, returning to Berea where they will be delighted to welcome their friends. The bride is a graduate of Berea College, is a highly accomplished young lady, a native of Tennessee. Mr. Smyth is also a graduate of Berea College and a well-to-do farmer. They first met at Berea four years ago, when they entered college.

O, may their lives be one sweet dream,
May joy and peace be thine;
And may the sparkling star of hope
Forever on them shine.

The Kansas wheat fields need 30,000 hands.

RICKARD IS BOXING'S GREATEST SHOWMAN

(By Associated Press)
New York, June 20—"Boxing's greatest showman." That is the title which Geo. Lewis ("Tex") Rickard, promoter of the coming Dempsey-Carpentier bout, has earned in the staging of several bouts drawing the largest gate receipts in the history of the sport.

Thrown in contact with the boxing game by accident, Rickard, whose career reads like fiction, accomplished nearly everything he set his mind on doing and has kept going along successfully, despite conditions that sometimes made the word "quit" seem attractive.

Rickard was born in Kansas City, Mo., January 2, 1871. His father, a millwright, moved to the Panhandle of Texas when the embryo promoter was a small boy. At the age of 12 years, thrown on his own resources, with a widowed mother, two brothers and three sisters to support, "Tex" turned to the calling of cow-punching universal in Texas.

Then started the travels which have made this man a "citizen of the world." He met success in the cattle business but in 1894 "hit the trail" for the Klondike. Months of hardship brought fair returns but after a year or two in Dawson, Rickard again moved. This time he drew up in Goldfield, Nev., at the time when the mining craze engulfed that section.

But Goldfield was not satisfied with the local activity which the miners brought to that place. The town "boosters" wanted national note and Rickard suggested a championship boxing match.

The promotion of big enterprises with the aid of virtually no capital has been characteristic of this prospector who has tapped the gold mines of Broadway as well as of the Klondike and Nevada. From his friends he secured enough money to offer Jimmy Britt and Terry McGovern a $30,000 guarantee for a championship bout in Goldfield. Coming from an unknown, at that time, the offer was hailed by the boxers and their managers as a joke.

Rickard kept right on however and the managers of Joe Gans and Battling Nelson were more susceptible to the glint of $30,000 in gold pieces laid before them. The lightweight fought a memorable battle at Goldfield. The town was advertised nationally and "Tex" Rickard became a successful fight promoter.

Since that time, Rickard has promoted from a financial point of view, the greatest ring contests ever staged. They have been successes only because of the extraordinary "showmanship" of the man. Always his slogan has been "take a chance." He astounded the world with his guarantee for the Johnson-Jeffries battle at Reno in 1910. But his receipts totalled $270,000 and he emerged a winner by $100,000. Receipts for the Willard-Dempsey bout at Toledo, July 4, 1919, amounted to $450,000, a new high mark.

Bouts staged by him in Madison Square Garden during the six months previous to last March brought in more than $1,300,000. Approximately $1,000,000 will flow into the box office before Jack Dempsey and George Carpentier square off at Jersey City July 2, easily covering the tremendous outlay necessary to stage this bout. Rickard is one of the few who have coaxed substantial returns out of promotion in the boxing game.

"Take a chance" and "Be square" are Rickard's statements which seem to summarize reasons for the success which has come to him in business as well as in boxing. For boxing is only a sideline with him. "Tex" is a partner in huge cattle enterprises in South America. His herds roam over a range of more than 4,000,000 acres. He is general manager of a firm backed by American financiers in a project which produces half the beef for American consumption.

But despite the "take a chance" motto, mere good luck has had little part in the success of this man who now sits in a suite of offices in Madison Square Garden and directs, in the Jersey bout, July 2, a "million dollar proposition." Starting without capital, applying well the principles of credit; making the forfeits of boxers pay for preliminary expenses of the earlier bouts, Rickard has been successful in the staging of 30 battles without a single loss. In the Goldfield days he was a prospector, uncovering the gold in box offices as well as in gold mines. Today this smooth faced, affable business man is still prospecting. But with success must come disadvantages. "Tex" Rickard's name now assures an event. There is no more doubt and "Take a Chance" Rickard almost misses the thrill.

Refuse $1,000 For All Peavine

John Underwood and Son, of Danville, refused an offer of $1,000 from a Missouri party for their saddle stallion, All Peavine. This five-gaited horse is 11 years old and has been shown in Madison Square Garden in New York City, and other big shows all over the country, winning premiums wherever shown. He is also the sire of premium winners, one being named "Ought To Be King," owned by R. B. Pemberton, of Chicago, who sold the colt two weeks ago for $10,000 to a Mr. Leyman, of Lake Villa, Ill. All Peavine was formerly owned by Dick Scudder, of Lincoln county.

SUFFERED SINCE HER CHILDHOOD

Troubles Got Worse As She Grew Older—Finds Relief At Last In Tanlac

"I have suffered from stomach trouble ever since I was a child, and Tanlac is the only thing I ever tried that brought me any relief," said Mrs. G. D. King, 226 South Washington street, Alexandria, Va.

"As I grew older the trouble got worse and finally I was so wretched I hardly took any interest in life. I suffered all the time with an abnormal craving for food and would eat things I knew would disagree with me, but the gnawing hunger was more than I could stand. I tried medicines and treatments of all sorts and was finally told there was no hope for me.

"I went on a visit to my father thinking the change might help me, and while there he advised me to take Tanlac. I certainly bless the day I took his advice, for Tanlac has proved to be just what I needed. The awful craving for food is gone. I have a normal appetite and my digestion is better than it ever was in my life. I feel better in every way. I wish I had it in my power to put a bottle of this grand medicine in the hand of every person who has stomach trouble, as I know it would mean bringing health and happiness to them, just as it did me."

Tanlac is sold in Richmond by Stockton and Son, and leading druggists.

COMBS STAR OF ATHLETIC MEET

Owing to Sunday's heavy rains the tennis tournament that was to have been held at the Normal Monday, was postponed until some date in the near future that has not been decided upon. Coach Hembree, however, put the track meet through with great success. Earl Combs, Eastern's star all-around athlete, turned in six wins.

Everyone "ate the dust" at his heels in all the running events that he took part in. He was in class all by himself in broad jumping, making four feet more than Mainous, who came second. Combs also won first in shot-putting and discus throwing. Jim Lackey, the tall Kingston lad, won in two contests. In the base ball throwing contest he heaved the pill five feet more than Coleman. He also cleared the bar at 60 inches in high jumping. Mainous took part in ten of the twelve events and gathered six seconds and three thirds. Some by-standers remarked as Reynolds won the pole vault that he had better be careful or he might hit an air pocket. A good crowd was out and another of Eastern's Field Days prove itself a success. Coach

Hembree himself took part in several events and showed the fans that he is still a real athlete. The events and their results follow:

100 yard dash—Combs, 1st; Neace 2nd; Pruitt, 3rd.

High jump—Lackey 1st, 60 inches; Combs, 2nd, 58 inches; Mainous, 3rd, 56 inches.

220 yard run—Combs, 1st; Mainous, 2nd; Neace, 3rd.

Shot put—Combs, 1st; Pruitt, 2nd; Lackey, 3rd.

Half-mile run—Gallbraith, 1st; Mainous, 2nd; Pruitt, 3rd.

Broad jump—Combs, 1st, 19 feet 1 inch; Mainous, 2nd, 15 feet 2 inches; Lackey, 3rd, 14 feet 10 inches.

Pole Vault—Reynolds, 1st, 8 feet 6 inches; Mainous, 2nd, 7 feet.

Mile run—Coleman, 1st; Mainous, 2nd; Cooper, 3rd.

Discus throw—Combs, 1st, 80 feet 3 inches; Mainous, 2nd, 70 feet 2 inches; Pruitt, 3rd, 70 feet 1 inch.

Baseball distance throw—Lackey, 1st; Coleman, 2nd; Mainous, 3rd.

440 yard run—Combs, 1st; Pruitt, 2nd; Mainous, 3rd.

ANOTHER VIEW OF SUNDAY BLUE LAWS

To the Editor of the Daily Register:

I was very much interested in the sermon of Dr. Homer W. Carpenter, published in the columns of the Daily Register of June 13, but I am in a quandary over certain assumptions or statements made, which, with all due respect to the Doctor, I feel are not in accordance with the facts.

You are no doubt aware that in Article I, of Amendments of the Constitution, we read: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

If religious freedom is a fundamental of the nation, are not the people who are clamoring for Sunday Blue Laws the ones that are trying to "Break up the foundation," and if successful, has not the object of our forefathers who "braved the uncharted seas" that they and their posterity might worship God according to the dictates of conscience, come to naught?

We know only too well the outcome of religious laws during the dark ages, when millions of God-fearing people were tortured to death for standing for their religious convictions and later during the early history of our country, Baptists and Quakers suffered cruel persecution and death on account of religious laws.

I believe the seventh day, the Sabbath that God blessed and sanctified nearly two thousand years before there was an Israelite, and the Sabbath that Christ said was made for all mankind, is the Sabbath men should observe. I believe in baptism by immersion. I believe we should observe the Lord's Supper, but I do not believe that any of these religious rites should be enforced by law, for fear of persecuting some, and making hypocrites of others.

The crux of the whole discussion over the Sunday Blue Laws should be found in the fact that there is no divine law for observance of Sunday. There are at the present time many human laws requiring Sunday observance, and these human Sunday laws may be found scattered through the pages of history, even back to very remote times. But the truth stands out as a lone, conspicuous, towering mountain peak, that there is but one divine Sabbath law. The law that the infinite Jehovah proclaimed from Sinai, defining the Sabbath and prescribing the manner of its observance, is the one and only divine precept. It says clearly that the seventh day—Saturday—is the Sabbath.

This controversy, then, over the Sunday question, involves something more than mere human legislation and mere human factors. It involves, with all its startling significance, the setting aside of the supreme law of Jehovah, in favor of a man-made institution. Can there be any doubt where the great God himself will stand in this controversy? Is it not perfectly clear that He will stand on the side of His own law? and does not the conviction strike down deep into one's soul that He so majestically proclaimed from Sinai.

Very sincerely,
CHAS. C. WEBSTER.

LEGION NEWS

The American soldier came out of the war with more religion than he went in, according to Rev. Henry Russell Talbot, canon of the National Cathedral, Washington, D. C., who arises to defend the doughboy from the libel that the "war ruined him."

"He is a better man for having been in the army," asserts the canon, referring to the soldier.

Canon Talbot was senior chaplain of the battle-scarred First Division of the A. E. F. In communication to National Headquarters of the American Legion, he admits the American, as he held in 47 counties last year at which time 11,200 birds were handled, one-third of which were found to be "loafers." Records were kept on the flocks culled and figures obtained to show that the total egg production of the flock after the culls had been removed was practically equal to that before culling.

BLIND HERO AT VETERANS' MEETING

(By Associated Press)

Detroit, Mich., June 20 — A blind hero of the world war will be the center of attraction at the formal opening of the first annual convention of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, here on June 27. He is Michael Aaronson, rabbi and student of the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, who as chaplain of the Disabled American Veterans will deliver the invocation at the first day's session of the Veterans.

Rabbi Aaronson at the outbreak of the war enlisted and served in the 147th Infantry. Both of his eyes were blown out when in the capture of Montfaucon in the Argonne, he was struck by a shell as he was bringing back wounded American soldiers.

Ambassador Jusserand of France, will deliver the greetings to the Republic of France, and if General John J. Pershing can be present he probably will make an address.

HOW TO TELL LAYER HEN FROM LOAFER

(By Associated Press)

Lexington, Ky., June 20—During July, August and September farmers in approximately 100 counties of the state will be shown to tell the heavy laying hen from the "loafer" according to J. Holmes Martin, in charge of poultry work of the College of Agriculture, who announced today that plans were being completed for a fall poultry culling campaign as a part of the poultry standardization work being done by the college.

The campaign will start July 20 and from then until October 1, two days will be spent in each of the counties having farm of home demonstration agents by specialists from the department. Demonstrations on how to tell loafer hens also will be held in counties not having such agents, where interest on the part of poultry raisers is sufficient to justify the demonstration.

A. S. Chaplin, J. H. Bardsly, J. R. Smyth and Mr. Martin will conduct the demonstrations in the various counties and will hold from two to four meetings in each county. Circulars will be distributed giving the culling process in detail and making it possible for the farmers to cull their own flocks after they have seen the demonstrations.

Late summer is the best time to determine which hens are the layers and which are the "loafers," according to Mr. Martin. When hens stop laying they usually start shedding their feathers thus making it possible to determine which hens have been laying over the longest period of time. This factor, in addition to color and body changes due to laying and the ideal temperament and activity of the laying hen will be explained to the farmers in connection with a number of other points in order to help them pick out the "slacker" hens in their flocks.

What's Your Time Worth?

When you buy a pair of boots, a can of peas or a kitchen cabinet do you know exactly what you want—or do you "shop around" and take pot luck?

You can save many an hour's time—and many a good hard dollar—by knowing beforehand what you want, where to get it, and approximately how much it will cost.

You can always know this much before you enter a store.

If it's clothing, you know how well it should wear and what the style should be. If it's a musical instrument, you know what to expect in tone and workmanship. If it's a carpet sweeper, you know what kind of service it should give.
